New Line of Attack

PINCHOT OPENS FIRE

Hoover Relief Program
Put on Hot Spot

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON

Washington, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Cheered by the decision of Vice-President Curtis to stand by the National Republican ticket in 1932, leaders of the Hoover forces today were sizing up a fresh anti-administration attack by Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania.

Smiles of "I told you so" were on the faces of intimates of President Hoover today. They regarded the announcement as a support of the President.

It was the effect of a Curtis decision to pass up the national campaign in favor of running again for his old senate seat from Kansas that had worried the administration forces. Curtis was the bulkhead of the anti-Hoover fight in 1928 pre-convention campaign and with him in camp, along with Calvin Coolidge, the Hoover friends are distinctly satisfied.

Governor Pinchot's attack last night on the administration's relief program and his demand for direct federal aid showed the direction of the 1932 Hoover danger in the Republican contest.

This attack will be renewed in congress by the Western Republican independents under Senators Borah, of Idaho and Norris, of Nebraska.

Senator Johnson of California, recalling the Hoover foreign policies, is causing considerable thought also. The Californian has been asked to get into the presidential contest.

With the Curtis statement, the President's re-nomination movement had virtually all of the Republican party "wheel horses" in line. Besides Calvin Coolidge, Senators Watson of Indiana, the party leaders, and Moses of New Hampshire, have declared for Hoover. Also representatives from the grain belt, including Senators Capper of Kansas; and Dickinson of Iowa, have predicted re-nomination.

The new spearhead of attack upon President Hoover's relief policies by Governor Pinchot fashioned itself today from a demand for federal aid to the needy.

Pinchot last night assailed the President's theory of local relief for the unemployed as utterly inadequate, and reached towards the pockets of the rich—his own among them—for the tax funds which he demanded be used for support of the destitute.

The Pennsylvanian uttered his

Two Federal Highways Come To Washington C. H.; Traffic Boom Expected

The new highway maps, to be issued within a short time, will carry the federalized highways, 62 and 22 through this city, thus completing two highly important links in the federal highway system, and turning a vast amount of additional traffic through Washington C. H. over what is now route 10, route 3 and route 28.

It will be recalled that some months ago action was taken to federalize route 28 from Maysville through this city, by extending federal route 62, and by federalizing route 10 between this city and Zanesville, and extending route 22 on into Cincinnati.

However, few persons realize the significance of these extensions, and do not know that federal route 22 will extend from Cincinnati to this city, thence to Lancaster, Zanesville, Cambridge, Steubenville, and on to Pittsburgh, with the eastern terminus at New York City.

Also that federal route 62 will extend from Niagara Falls and Buffalo, N. Y., to Youngstown, thence down across Ohio to Columbus, over the CCC highway into this city, south from here over what is now 38 to Hillsboro, thence to Maysville, Lexington, across Kentucky to Paducah, crossing the Mississippi river at Cairo, Ill., at the mouth of the Ohio, down through Missouri, Arkansas and across to Oklahoma City, and across Texas to El Paso, where it will connect with a highway being built to Mexico City, Mexico.

It will be seen that these two federal routes are of foremost importance, and that persons from the northeastern part of the U. S. will select the route when going to the southwest, and that a great number in the states through which the federal routes pass will likewise select the federal routes in preference to all others.

The increased traffic expected over these routes means that eventually the three "bottle necks" in this city—Columbus avenue, Leesburg avenue, and Clinton avenue, must be widened, and it is expected that part of this work will be included in next year's highway program in Fayette county.

When the new maps are ready, the numbers on present routes will be changed to the federal route numbers, 62 and 22, so that when the maps are issued the markers will correspond with the maps.

On the wall at the Fayette County Automobile Club office is a map showing the new routes, as indicated by Secretary Howard C. Allen, who, with others familiar with highway traffic and routing, is of the opinion that when the federal markers are placed, and maps issued, that there will be a speedy pickup in the extent of the through traffic over the two routes.

SENATE MAY PROBE FARM BOARD

E. F. Creekmore

G. S. Milnor, top, G. E. Huff

With senate leaders aroused over the admission of farm board officials that $225,000,000 of the government's farm relief fund has been lost in operations and with the revelation of salaries paid the officials of the board's subsidiary organizations, a senate inquiry into all phases of the federal farm relief activities seems probable when congress convenes Dec. 7. According to James C. Stone, chairman of the senate agricultural committee, E. F. Creekmore, left, president of the cotton stabilization corporation, receives salary and commissions aggregating $75,000 annually; George S. Milnor, right, above, president of the grain stabilization corporation, $50,000 per year, and G. E. Huff, below, president of the farmers' national grain corporation, $15,000 a year.

TIRE PRICES CUT

REDUCTION OF 5 TO 15 P. C. IS ON STANDARD GRADES ONLY ANNOUNCEMENT SAYS

Akron, O., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Five large auto tire companies announced price reductions today to the lowest levels in their history. They were the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company, B. F. Goodrich Co., Sieberling Rubber Co., Mohawk Tire & Rubber Company and the Master Tire & Rubber Co.

The reductions from 5 to 15 per cent, will affect "standard" grades of tires, but not the "second" and "de luxe" lines. Inner tubes also will be reduced 15 per cent.

Similar cuts have been made by the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company and the Lee Rubber & Tire Co.

Hawks Takes Off from Canada and Wedell Starts in Mexico

Agua Caliente, Lower California, Mexico, Dec. 1.—(AP)—J. R. Wedell, New Orleans speed flier, zoomed out of the sky at 6:17:45 a. m. today, touched his wheels at the airport here, and raced away toward Vancouver, B. C., on a round trip, three flag record flight, with a flying start estimated at 150 miles an hour.

Wedell actually began his flight in San Diego, Cal., when he fueled and took off shortly after 6 a. m. He did not stop at the field here, to avoid being forced to halt in San Diego for customs inspection.

Captain Frank Hawks, American speed king is making a similar flight, starting from Vancouver.

HAWKS TAKES OFF

Vancouver, B. C., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Racing in an opposite direction over the 1,200 mile Pacific rim of the United States for a new record between Canada and Mexico, Captain Frank Hawks shot off from Sea Island Airport near here at 9 a. m., two hours, 42 minutes after J. R. Wedell zoomed northward from the American border.

Both were firing at the 7 hour, 48 minute, Canadian to Mexican border mark set last June by James Goodwin Hall, New York broker. Wedell set the more ambitious program of attempting to smash the record twice by following Hawks back to Agua Caliente, Mexico, from here before tonight.

Spurred by this competition, Hawks, holder of about 30 American and European city-to-city records, hoped to put Wedell's round-

GERMAN TARIFF LAW OPENED TO PERMIT BOOST

President Issues Decree Giving Power to Go to Top Limits

Berlin, Dec. 1.—(AP)—In one of the shortest decrees he ever issued President von Hindenburg today gave the Bruening government almost unlimited power to raise customs duties to a prohibitory point.

During the Reichstag recess, until next February 23, it empowers the government, "in the event of stringent economic necessity" to change the present customs schedule and to enter into a system of bilateral treaties with foreign countries.

These things may be done without consulting the Reichstag and in some quarters the decree was regarded as empowering negotiators with England to agree to tariff schedules without submitting the agreement for ratification.

Observers here thought that part of the decree referring to new treaties might bring contests from nations now exchanging most-favored nation treatment with Germany.

The decree itself contains only about twenty-five words, making it one of the briefest and at the same time one of the most powerful since Chancellor Bruening began governing by edict.

It reads: "The government is given power during recess of the Reichstag in the event of stringent economic necessity: 1—To change existing import duties; 2—To effect a system of temporary bilateral treaties with foreign countries.

ARSON IS SCENTED IN CLEVELAND FIRE

Cleveland, O., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Max R. Felsman, manager of a four-story factory building here, in which fire wardens yesterday discovered an incendiary plot was threatened with a jail sentence who refused to answer questions before the county grand jury today.

A dozen 50-gallon drums of gasoline with excelsior "fuses" had been placed in the building but the fire was distinguished before serious damage was caused.

Fire investigators learned there was nearly $2,000,000 worth of fire insurance on the structure.

Foreclosure proceedings on the property are pending in federal court on behalf of the S. W. Straus & Co., Chicago, owners of a first mortgage on it.

AMERICAN BUSINESS CRITICIZED

Unemployment Preventative Urged by Leader of Industry

WORDS NOT SOFTENED

Present System Wrong, in Irvin Bush's Opinion

By WILLIAM J. EADS.

(Copyright, 1931, by the (P).)

New York, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The present unemployment problem furnishes a challenge to American industry to find some permanent solution to prepare for future emergencies, Irving T. Bush, president of Bush Terminal Co., said today.

"I am an optimist," Mr. Bush said. "I can see indications of improvement in some lines, now, and if we were in the same position as we were a quarter century ago, we might go on from here."

"However, we are so closely knitted in a financial and business way with Europe that our progress out of the present slump will depend in large measure on Europe's advance. But we will have other periods of unemployment and the time to prepare for them is now."

"There must be something radically wrong with a system such as ours that permits panhandling, bread lines and soup kitchens and still obviously does not provide relief for all," he said. "Except in countries where begging is a recognized occupation, I do not know of any country that has as much of it as we have here."

Bush made it clear that he favors the present nation-wide emergency unemployment relief, but that he feels some permanent plan should be worked out to care for future emergencies.

He believes the plan of Gerald Swope, already in effect in the General Electric Co., a good one, but pointed out that it takes care of only one industry.

"Mr. Swope's plan might well be taken as a model," he said, "to provide a plan that would cover every field of industry, skilled and unskilled labor and the white collar workers."

He said that the government should have no part in this enlarged plan, pointing out that government aid provides one of the weaknesses of the European system. Such relief, he believes, is too paternalistic. He believes most of the present troubles are due to the government mixing in matters entirely outside of proper governmental function.

PEACE PROSPECTS IN ORIENT BOOSTED

Paris, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Japan's demand for the right to take action against bandits in Manchuria was not included in the final Manchurian resolution completed late this afternoon by the drafting committee of the League of Nations Council.

The resolution was submitted immediately to the Japanese and Chinese delegates who transmitted it to their governments for instructions.

It was expected that Aristide Briand would make reference to the Japanese demand when and if the council adopts the resolution in plenary session.

Yesterday league leaders hailed with eager optimism China's announcement that she is ready to accept the council plan if Japan's evacuation of the Chinchow area is established as definite.

The council today sought to overcome Japan's insistence on its right to continue to police the area against bandits.

GRANDMA-ROBBER GUILTY SAYS JURY

Chicago, Dec. 1.—(AP)—A 67-year-old grandmother has been convicted as a robber.

She is Mrs. Anna Baranski who was found guilty by a jury in criminal court yesterday.

The conviction carries a mandatory sentence of 1 to 20 years imprisonment, but the trial judge deferred passing sentence until motions for a new trial are heard.

Mrs. Baranski, known as the "grandmother bandit," was accused of complicity with her son, who was slain in a robbery, and Harold Marcell, who turned state's evidence.

WEALTHY OLD ECCENTRIC WANTS ONLY HER FORTUNE HOARDED FOR MANY YEARS

Artist Scott's conception of Mrs. Ida E. Wood.

(Editors: Ethelda Bedford is one of the first newspaper writers to have gained access to the heavily guarded rooms of Mrs. Ida E. Wood, eccentric millionaire.)

By ETHELDA BEDFORD

Author of "Dear Diary," Central Press Feature.

New York, Dec. 1.—Mrs. Ida E. Wood blinks angry tears from her half-blind eyes. The deep furrows of her sagging face bring the flow of tears as if to hide this 94-year-old woman's sorrow.

"I want my money! I want my money!" she weeps. She is hurt and feels unfairly intruded upon. That which has been her closest friend and companion for 24 years has been taken from her by the law—her money!

She weeps for the million dollars she hoarded for 24 years—stuffed beneath the trayed red carpet and mattress of the brass bed in a cheap little room in the Herald Square hotel.

During these years she had been happy. She didn't complain about anything. Asked nothing, living on tinned foods she prepared herself. She had all the comforts she wanted. And—whatever she desired she certainly had money to buy.

More Than Queens Have

No actress, and few queens, possessed her like of jewels. Why, in the cotton batting of a chair in the dingy hotel room she had a 165 carat diamond necklace hidden, sewed under the upholstery!

Since her nephew and guardian, Otis F. Wood, has taken legal steps to have her fortune removed from the hotel to more safe keeping, Mrs. Wood has not spent a peaceful minute. She became ill. She refused to eat.

To make matters worse for her she has been moved from the old Continued on Page Two.

OHIO CONGRESSMEN IN WET MAJORITY

New York, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Seven Ohio Congressmen and Senator Robert J. Bulkley of that state favor submission of a proposal to repeal the eighteenth amendment to the voters. Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, president of the women's organization for National Prohibition Reform said here yesterday, in announcing partial results of a poll.

They were included among 251 members of Congress responsive to the question. Others are yet to be heard from.

The seven Ohio Congressmen listed as favoring submission are: William E. Hess, Cincinnati; Bryon B. Harlan, Dayton; Wilbur M. White, Toledo; Arthur P. Lamneck, Columbus; William L. Fiesinger, Sandusky; Robert C. Orsinger, Cleveland; and Chester C. Holton, Cleveland.

By the poll members were not pledged to support repeal but to support submission of the repeal proposal to the states.

FLAMES THREATEN TULANE UNIVERSITY

New Orleans, Dec. 1.—(AP)—A general fire alarm was sounded shortly after noon today for a fire in the dental department of Tulane University. Chemicals were exploding as firemen arrived.

The explosion blew out windows of the building, but six fire hose lines checked the spread of flames and it was believed the building would be saved.

MORROW'S SUCCESSOR APPOINTED

W. Warren Barbour to Fill One of New Jersey's Seats in Senate

HE'S WELL QUALIFIED

Once Amateur Boxing Champion of World

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 1.—(AP)—W. Warren Barbour, former Mayor of Rumson and wealthy thread manufacturer, was appointed today by Governor Morgan F. Larson to succeed the late Dwight W. Morrow, as United States Senator from New Jersey.

Barbour, who is 43 years old, is a Republican. He was once amateur heavyweight boxing champion of the world. He entered public life in Rumson in 1882 when he was elected to the borough council. The next year he became Mayor.

In 1929, he entered the Republican primary against E. Donald Sterner, of Belmar, for the Republican nomination for State Senator from Monmouth county. Sterner was nominated and subsequently elected.

During the present year, he served as chairman of the Finance Committee of the Republican state committee.

Barbour fought his last public boxing bout in 1911 and at the time was hailed by James J. Corbett as the only boxer worthy to meet Jack Johnson for the heavyweight title. He refrained from entering the professional ranks, however.

Barbour will take his seat when Congress convenes.

The Governor's announcement had been awaited by political leaders since Morrow's sudden death, Oct. 4. Morrow, whose career in business and as a diplomat was climaxed by his entrance into the senate, had been elected for the balance of the term of Walter E. Edge, who resigned to become Ambassador to France, and for a full six-year term. He had not yet completed serving Edge's term when he died.

Barbour, chairman of the Finance Committee of the Republican State Committee, will serve until a successor is elected in the 1932 general elections. Informed of his appointment he declined to indicate immediately whether he would enter the Republican primary next year.

YOUTH SHOTS GIRL RE-ENACTING DRAMA

CASE OF "GUN NOT LOADED" IS FATAL—POLICE CALL IT ACCIDENTAL TRAGEDY.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—(AP)—A drama of death was enacted last night by Joseph Wilson, 16 year old school boy.

He shot to death Constance Trohats, also 16, in an effort to demonstrate to her just how their schoolmate, Henry Sio killed Ruth Wicklund, 12, and then himself. Sio, a 16 year old school boy shot the Wicklund girl yesterday as a result of a childish romance, which the parents of the children had tried to break up.

Constance was killed in the Wilson home where she and young Wilson and Constance's sister, Cleo were discussing the Wicklund-Sio tragedy.

INDIA CONFERENCE ENDS IN FAILURE

London, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald closed the second round table conference today with a declaration that it had failed to settle the communal problem but that the work of arranging independence for India would go on.

Mahatma Gandhi, in his final word, said that as far as he could determine from listening to the prime minister's address, he and the British government had reached the parting of the ways.

BRICK PLANT BURNS

Oak Hill, O.—(AP)—The plant of the Cambria Clay Products Company at Blackfork was destroyed Monday by the third disastrous fire in a brick plant in this section within two years. Damage was placed at $250,000 by officers of the company.

TORTURE ROBBERS GET LIFE SAVINGS

Batavia, O., Dec. 1.—(AP)—Three robbers who last night tortured an aged man and his son with scalding water and forced them to reveal the hiding place of $862, their life's savings, were hunted today by county authorities.

The victims were Toney Schaub, 79, and his son, Charles, 53. They live one mile southeast of here on Little Dry Run road.

Deputy Sheriff said the Schaubes told them the trio, each armed with two revolvers, broke into their home and demanded money. The robbers beat the father with revolvers and poured boiling water on both men when the victims hesitated to disclose the hiding place.

The intruders escaped with $302 in currency, $460 in government bonds and $100 in postal savings certificates.

LAKE ERIE ISLANDS GET AIR MAIL LINE

Sandusky, O., —(AP)—No longer will islanders of Lake Erie, isolated by snow and ice during the winter, wonder whether the mail boat can get through.

Starting today, the postal department established an air mail route from the mainland to Kelley's Island, Put-In-Bay, Middle Mass and North Mass. The mail will be carried for the regular rate of two cents and the new route is believed the only place in the United States where air mail is flown at the regular rates.

INGALLS CONTINUES "GET-ACQUAINTED TOUR" OVER OHIO

Republican Governorial Aspirant Discusses U. S. S. Akron in Meeting at Coshocton

Coshocton, O., Dec. 1 (P)—David S. Ingalls, Cleveland, assistant secretary of the Navy for aeronautics and candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, praised the U. S. S. Akron as a valuable addition to the United States navy in an address before the Rotary Club here today.

Ingalls, who is making a "get-acquainted tour" of the state this week by airplane, did not discuss politics. He flew here from Columbus, and returned to the capital after his address.

Army aviation made extensive developments during the world war but Navy did not begin its increase until after the war, Ingalls said. He pointed out that the U. S. S. Akron, constructed in Ohio and now in regular service, is a valuable addition to the fleet.

The ship, Ingalls claimed, may be utilized as a scout in the same manner as a cruiser. Among the advances over a cruiser claimed by Ingalls for the ship were: three times the speed; the altitude gives greater vision and permits covering nine times the territory; cheaper, the Akron, type costing from three to three and one-half million dollars in production as compared with a cruiser costing four to five times that sum; cheaper operation, the Akron carrying a crew of 65 and a cruiser requiring 700 men.

"The Akron," Ingalls said, "is really more invulnerable to enemy attack than a cruiser. It never gets within range of a ship and its only enemy is other aircraft. The Akron can see a ship long before a ship can sight it. Even though sighted and attacked by other aircraft, it is armed with plenty of machine guns, carries its own fleet of five fighting planes and can ascend more rapidly than a bomber without losing forward speed as in the case with an airplane."

The airplane carrier, another recent development for naval use, was lauded by Ingalls as another valuable asset to the Navy.

AWARDS MADE IN GRAIN AND LIVESTOCK SHOW

Ohioans Carry Off Share of Honors at Chicago Exposition

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 1 (P)—First prize in regions 3 and 7, comprising Iowa, the Northern halves of Illinois, Indiana and Ohio and a southern strip of Pennsylvania, was won by Bonadell farm of Coshocton, O., with its exhibits of oats at the International Livestock Exposition here yesterday. Other Ohio winners in this division were: Raymond Seward of Coshocton, second; and G. E. Kennedy of Litchfield, tenth. Bonadell farm's exhibit of white dent corn grown in region 7, comprising the northern halves of Indiana and Ohio and a Southern strip of Pennsylvania, also won first prize. Maplewood farms of Woodstock, O., was eighth. The Aberdeen Angus junior yearling bull of F. G. Stroop, Dayton was fifth in its class.

C. B. Teegardin of Duval, O., took first place with two bulls in the breeding polled shorthorn class and first place in the same class with a three year old cow. A three year old heifer calf of Teegardin's took third.

Dorothy C. Hinder of Long Green, Md., today won a blue ribbon from judges who appraised the first section of exhibits, ranging from canned peas to window curtains, that 4-H Club girls have entered in the tenth national congress, held in connection with the international livestock show.

Miss Hinder won the ribbon in competition with 30 states for a smart and economical complete sport or street clothes outfit. Her exhibit was a brown and yellow two-piece cotton frock, the cost of which, including shoes, hat, under garment and accessories, was $16.38.

Wanita Strawn, Fairfield County, Ohio, took seventh place in the home window decorating contest, which was won by Cora Torgerson of Freeborn county, Minnesota.

A brown and tan cotton dress, made by George Huber of Kenricks County, Ind., was adjudged the best cotton school dress submitted by 25 state champions. Velma Hatfield, Licking county, Ohio, was sixth.

room on the fifth floor, where she lived all those years, to one on the fourth. It is a little brighter. And the walls are clearer. She has a night nurse, also a day nurse. They want her to stay in bed, but she refuses. She is active for her 94 years.

Looking much like a witch, with her scraggly white hair and squinting eyes, and with nose and chin almost touching, Mrs. Wood makes a gruesome picture, hobbling about her room in an aged black wrapper. Babbling about her money and smoking big, black cigars.

Clis F. Wood has been continuing the search for valuables in the 40 trunks Mrs. Wood had stored at a local warehouse. Numerous tarfetas, brocades, velvets . . . with billowing skirts and leg o'mutton sleeves have been found.

Lost Interest in Jewels
Over 64 years ago Mrs. Wood said she "began to lose interest in dresses and jewels." She stored away her fineries then, and turned to the stock market, and bought railroad bonds and stocks manipulated by Jay Gould.

But it was in 1907, after her husband's death, that she drew out $750,000 from her banks, took her valuable possessions and hid away in the uptown hotel.

"I made money and kept it. So many people whom every one considers quite competent can't do that," she said.

A Clear Mind
Her mind is very active and seemingly very clear.

"I want to be very careful of my necklace," she said, referring to the rope of 35 diamonds, which had been stored in the old chair. "And the earrings, for which Mr. Wood paid $6,000."

While she is checking, with her nephew, Mr. Wood, on the jewelry and money, she still is upset about anyone invading her privacy. She wants her money. She does not want it put into a bank. She does not believe in banks.

Programs Are "Treasures"
She is concerned about the yet loved old programs of plays she saw before she lost interest in jewels and dresses and took to stocks. After she passes on her relatives might sell them as relics, but now—although she can not see to read them any more—she wants them. She has enough to fill two trunks!

She wants no visitors—though in one day 300 came to see and talk to this woman who is so deaf one has to scream to make her hear and who is so nearly blind she can scarcely see should you write your message.

Night and day forces of detectives are kept to guard Mrs. Wood's rooms—she has two rooms now—from the curious.

An average of 25 letters come to her a day, since the story of her wealth was reported.

She wants only her money—and to be let alone.

"Surely these are my rights," she says.

challenge almost at the door of the White House, speaking before the District of Columbia's League of Women Voters. He drove down from Harrisburg just for the speech, returning immediately.

Pinchot asserted "local relief means making the poor man pay." From it, he contended, would come an increase in property taxes, either now or very shortly.

"That program can start no factory wheels," he remarked. "Yet in the absence of congress, it is to that program we have been committed. . . . Federal relief is demanded by every principle of justice, or humanity, and of sound economics."

Having settled the speakership candidacy by nominating Representative Snell of New York, house Republicans today swung their attention to making procedure rules less stringent.

The proposal under consideration, to modify the iron rules which have controlled legislation and debate since post-war days, came from Snell himself.

The New Yorker won the nomination yesterday on the seventh ballot of a protracted caucus. His chief competitor, Tilson, of Connecticut, withdrew when the vote went to 96 to 64 against him.

Yet the chief issue remained unsettled. Only after congress convenes will the Republicans decide whether Snell will be minority leader under Democratic organization, or whether Tilson will hold this post, which has been his for three congresses. Two hours of debate failed to solve that question yesterday.

The Democrats will caucus Saturday to nominate Representative Garner of Texas as speaker and probably to name Representative Henry T. Rainey of Illinois floor leader.

Weather reports were favorable except for a 38-mile south wind above 3,000 feet, which will slow up the flier. Captain Hawks planned to fly between 5,000 and 10,000 above the ground. He expected to clear customs in record time at Portland.

31 WOODCUTTERS AT WORK TUESDAY

Thirty-one men were taken to the Eyeman woods on the Chillicothe road, Tuesday morning, to cut wood for fuel, making the trip in county trucks, and returning in the same manner.

It was the largest number yet responding to the call to cut their own fuel, which is given through the courtesy of Val R. McCoy, trustee of the Eyeman estate, and the wood, once cut, is hauled to the homes of those who cut it, the county trucks again being used for this purpose.

Many of the woodcutters form teams upon reaching the woods, work together, each taking half of the wood cut.

The Red Cross is continuing the daily distribution of soup to all of the woodcutters.

Several additional men have enrolled to cut fuel Wednesday.

SCHOLASTIC REQUIREMENTS IN STATE SCHOOLS ARE UPHeld

Portsmouth Girl Loses in Appellate Court After Being Expelled

Hamilton, O., Dec. 1—(AP)—Ohio college students must maintain required scholastic standings in state supported institutions or they can be expelled from school, the circuit court of appeals ruled here today in an unusual case.

The ruling resulted from a suit filed last spring by Miss Jean West, 21, Portsmouth, who was notified by Miami University during the last Easter vacation she could not return to her classes because she failed in her studies.

The case took her case to common pleas court where Judge J. D. Barnes, Sidney, upheld her and perpetually enjoined trustees of the University and Miami school from dismissing her.

A. H. Upham, president of Miami University, appealed the decision with the result that the circuit court reversed Judge Barnes on the grounds it was manifestly unfair to students who were able to maintain required grades to be hampered and retarded by a pupil who fell below standard.

The circuit court opinion was written by Judge Simon Ross and concurred in by Judges Wade Cushing and Francis Hamilton.

Evidence showed Miss West graduated from Portsmouth high school and entered Miami Normal school September 19, 1930. On April 3, 1931, she was dismissed from classes and while home on Easter vacation was informed on April 14, she had been expelled for failure to make passing grades.

Miss West, through her father, William West, III, is contesting the state's right to bar any student who had paid the entrance fee. Answering the suit, university trustees said there was a regulation which required students to earn 25 credits for the first semester and that Miss West obtained only 23 during that time.

The case was requested to withdraw from school at the end of the first semester but was allowed to enroll for the second semester under probation for nine weeks during which time she was to make 30 credits.

Trustees testified that at the end of the probation period Miss West earned only 19 points and the academic council then expelled her.

The circuit court's opinion covered twenty pages.

FRESHMEN PLAN PLAY TO RAISE FUNDS FOR PAYMENT ON PIANO

The Freshman class of Washington High School is sponsoring a play on Friday evening, November 11, to finish paying for the piano purchased last year by the eighth grade Glee Clubs. The play, "When Fortune Melts Away," will be presented by the Dramatic Art classes of the city under the direction of Miss Irene Tobin.

Children taking part in the three acts represent Central, Sunnyside, Cherry Hill, Rose Avenue and East-side schools.

Miss Tobin is being assisted in the preparations by a committee of Freshmen pupils, Elizabeth Godfrey, Margaret Roberts, Jane Ferneau, Phillip Sheets, Jack Hicks and Carl Theobald.

Worrying About—BLOOD PRESSURE?

At the first sign of danger, take a laxative. Cut down on alcohol, coffee and tobacco. Eat lightly for several days. Take a tablespoonful of mentha pepsin before meals to make digestion as easy as possible. Keep quiet until your stomach is settled and the dizzy spells have passed.

Have your physician check your blood pressure at frequent intervals. Continue to protect yourself by taking mentha pepsin before every meal. (You can get Dare's Mentha Pepsin from Finley's Corner Drug Store or any other reliable druggist.) Avoid heavy food and too heavy meals—especially at night.

Do this faithfully and the chances are that you will prevent—or at least postpone—the danger of a stroke.—Adv.

Coroner Finds Death Due to Acute Intoxication

The body of Homer Rankin, 46, well known resident of Octa, was found in the rear of his automobile parked near the R. T. Briggs home in the Lattrell community, early Monday evening, and Coroner James M. Harsha, called to view the body, pronounced death due to acute intoxication.

He apparently had been dead for some little time when his body was found by Briggs.

Rankin for several years had been employed by the State Highway Department, but during the past year was farming on his place at Octa.

In addition to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Rankin, he is survived by one brother, Earl, of Warren, Ohio.

After Dr. Harsha had viewed the body, it was removed to the Kiever Funeral Home in the city, prepared for burial, and returned to his home in Octa, Tuesday forenoon.

Real Christmas
 Washington's financial institutions are distributing thousands of dollars this week—the checks are sent out on December first—to the members of their Christmas Clubs.

Unless we stop to consider it, we are in danger of not appreciating just how much it means to the buying public, to the merchants and to business generally, to have thousands of dollars "turned loose" in the channels of trade at this time of the year when one wants to do so much for loved ones and when there is such an abundant opportunity to gratify every wholesome desire in the abundant stocks and buying opportunities local merchants have provided for the buying, Christmas minded public, enthused by the holiday spirit. It means that the preparations made for residents of the community by merchants will not have been in vain; that the buying public will be able to give real proof of their appreciation.

It means, too, that these thousands of dollars distributed will make the rounds of local stores and shops, giving added stimulus and encouragement to each in their journey around the circle of business returning to the financial institutions again, to work throughout the next year in financing the business and aiding the home builders of the community.

Quite a fairy tale of fact, come to think of it, this distribution to Christmas Club members tells.

James Hillery

When death claimed James Hillery last week, it removed from this community, one of its most widely known and popular citizens.

"Jim" Hillery has been one of the outstanding figures in the public service and the politics of Washington for many years. Few people now living can remember when the public has been without him in its service.

As a young man he was outstanding in the life of the then village of Washington. He has come along with this place from small village to prosperous "town" and finally with it when it graduated into the city class.

Our streets, sidewalks, alleys, underground network of public utilities all are associated with his name, his life and his energy. We can't soon forget "Jim" Hillery.

For many years any one, old resident or new comer, private home owner or big business executive, who wanted to know about those labyrinths of surface or underground Washington, sought out "Jim" Hillery.

Blessed with splendid strength of body and alertness of mind, with charm of manner and word, with that assurance that goes with consciousness of knowledge and power, yet with it all accommodating and gracious, he made the ideal public servant and he used his gifts to the advantage of this community through all his years of service.

"Up the Road a Piece"

Preliminary plans are pretty well formed and adopted, so 'tis reported by those who, some way or other, know of these important projects long before people generally even dream of them, for a broad highway stretching from Buffalo, New York, through Washington C. H. to El Paso, Texas, there to connect with the Mexican highway to Mexico City.

That much seems to be pretty well settled upon and a project to be brought to actual reality in the very near future.

Later on, and those plans are not yet formed definitely, the great Mexican highway from the south of Mexico will link the highways of Central America with the highway to the north.

All of which means that our children, perhaps ourselves, will be able to sit out on the hotel verandahs in Texas or Mexico and tell inquisitive fellow tourists who ask where we live—oh, just up the road a piece or to "Roll Down to Rio" on rubber wheels instead of on a wallowing sailing ship as Kipling dreamed.

These are great times when dreamers cease to be and all are realists in a world where wonders are commonplace.

WE ARE CAUGHT IN OWN TRAP IN TARIFF ROW

Probable Floor Leader Blames Depression on High Rates. Sees Hope in Reciprocity

By CHARLES P. STEWART.

Washington, Dec. 1.—With the Democrats in control of the house of representatives (by a narrow margin but seemingly to a certainty) will tariff reduction be attempted at the coming session of congress?

The Democrats are supposed to be believers in a low tariff; though in point of actual fact not all of them do believe in it.

Still, the low tariff element predominates. Counting also the Republicans who consider present rates too high, it is more than likely that a bill lowering them could be put through the house of representatives. But could it be put through the senate? That also is possible. The Democrats there will be within one of a tie with the Republicans, and in the senate, as in the house of representatives, there are Republicans who favor reduction.

Even if passed, however, would President Hoover sign such a bill? While no one can be sure on that question, it is quite generally understood that Mr. Hoover deemed the rates fixed by the present law excessive when he approved the measure—reluctantly, according to common gossip.

Besides, there unquestionably is a disposition in many quarters to blame today's tariff rates in large part for hard times.

"In large part!" scoffs Congressman Henry T. Rainey, probable Democratic floor leader. "They are nearly 100 per cent responsible for keeping the times hard. The tariff bill of 1922 started the trouble."

Representative Rainey, from Illinois, has more experience as an opponent of high tariff legislation than any other member of congress. His service in Washington dates back to 1903, the same year that Representative John N. Garner of Texas, who is slated for the speakership, took his seat. Only Representatives Gilbert N. Haugen of Iowa and Edward W. Pon of North Carolina (the former dating from 1899 and the latter from 1901) are congressional seniors of Representatives Garner and Rainey. But that he unluckily missed a term in 1921-22 and had to go to the foot of the class, the Illinoisan long ago would have been chairman of the ways and means committee, which specializes on taxation, tariff laws included.

"Having initiated the program of international trade interference with our tariff act of 1922, thus preparing the ground for world hard times to follow," said the veteran, "we definitely clinched the depression with the Hawley-Smoot law, passed by the last congress."

"The weakness of our industrial leaders," concluded the Illinoisan, "is that most of them have come up from the bench—thoroughly acquainted with problems of production, but entirely ignorant of distribution."

"They are remarkably efficient at running factories."

"They have seemed entirely oblivious of the necessity for consumers in great numbers, to buy the output of their factories."

"The weakness of our industrial leaders," concluded the Illinoisan, "is that most of them have come up from the bench—thoroughly acquainted with problems of production, but entirely ignorant of distribution."

Poetry For Today

TRUTH
 Tell the truth with a foot in the stirrup—
 Yea, with the spur in the station's side.
 Lies are as bland as the honey-syrup;
 Truth is a thorn in the heart of Pride.

Truth is cold as a sea that's frozen,
 Bitter and sharp as a dragon's tooth.
 What makes a friend like a lie well chosen?
 What makes a foe like a ranking truth?

Truth is pitiless, harsh and sterile;
 Loose it not with a fluent pen!
 Guard your tongue from the word of peril—
 Truth that kindles the wrath of men!

—Arthur Guiterman, in the New York Times.

"Other countries have co-operated handsomely to aggravate the situation."
 "Either in imitation of us (assuming that our boom, which burst in 1929, was real prosperity, and anxious to share in it) or in the retaliation for our policy, they have erected a maze of tariff walls in the face of which commerce the world over is prostrate."

"It is a permanent condition, while those walls remain—except that it may grow worse."

"Indeed, there is every prospect that it will grow worse. The British empire is erecting a prohibitive wall against outside trade. When it completes this task, the depression we have experienced heretofore will fade into insignificance—for the British, notwithstanding all difficulties, have been our best customers: Japan next, but of relatively small importance."

"What," queried the congressman, "shall we do?"

"We can't reduce our rates unqualifiedly. If we do, we shall be flooded by the products of factories which our own manufacturers, driven by trade restrictions, have established abroad and manned with foreign countries' comparatively cheap labor."

"We're caught in our own tariff trap."

"There is only one way of escape for us. Reciprocity."

"We must provide," said the representative, "for a general scaling down of our taxation rates upon imports, but we must not accord, we must offer these reductions to other nations in return for corresponding reductions, upon their part, to our exports."

"Our tariff commission having reported, upon due investigation, that this condition has been satisfactorily met by such-and-such a country, the president must then, by proclamation, put the specified reductions into effect in favor of that country."

"Our markets being greatly depressed, we can depend that our terms speedily will be widely accepted. Moreover, other countries are sure to adopt a similar system among themselves. Our initiative quickly will be felt toward ending the high tariff craze, just as we were responsible for beginning it."

"In a short time international trade again will be moving and prosperity will return to the world."

"The weakness of our industrial leaders," concluded the Illinoisan, "is that most of them have come up from the bench—thoroughly acquainted with problems of production, but entirely ignorant of distribution."

"They are remarkably efficient at running factories."

In Ohio History High Spots

General Richard Butler, who commanded a division of St. Clair's army when it was overwhelmed by the Indians in the fall of 1791, and was wounded, Tomahawked and killed, was really the first person to exercise federal authority over what is now Ohio. He was made a member of a commission appointed to negotiate a treaty with the Indians and to supervise relations between the whites and Indians and to hold in check the tendency of the whites to "squat" upon lands in the territory before arrangements for survey and sale could be made following the enactment of the pending ordinance.

With him General George Rogers Clark, and Arthur Lee were commissioners and their duties verged largely into agency work with the Indians, with Butler detailed to deal with the Wyandots and other Ohio tribes, after the conclusion of the treaty of Ft. Stanwix. Ohio is specially interested in this first tribal with federal authority to come upon her soil.

George Rogers Clark has lately come to be regarded as the savior of the Middle West for the colonies during the war of the revolution, and honor is paid to his memory that was withheld during his lifetime. He was a Virginian as was also Arthur Lee of the commission, but Butler was a native of Ireland and a graduate of the University of Edinburgh.

Lee was a brother of Richard Henry and Francis Lightfoot Lee, of Revolutionary fame. He was educated at Princeton, of which he was a graduate. He was a lawyer and a writer of pamphlets urging independence during the years immediately preceding the Revolution.

He was a commissioner for the colonies during the Revolution, to France, Spain and Austria, and with Franklin signed the treaty with France in 1778. A break with Franklin resulted in his retirement for a brief period to private life. From the courts of Europe to the wilds of the Ohio country in 1784 must have been some transition to him.

A NEW YORKER AT LARGE

By WILLIAM GAINES

NEW YORK—Has the impression of the newspaperman as a sort of swashbuckling hero achieved the proportions generally that it has here?

Maybe increased enrollment in some of the far-flung schools of journalism reveals the trend of opinion.

Through the years there were a few interesting novels making monumental figures of the seekers and creators of news. But it was said that no play dealing with the exploits of newspapermen could be successful.

Then came "The Front Page," and "Gentlemen of the Press," fruit of the same Broadway season. Since then the stage and movies, as well as fiction, have been working overtime, profitably weaving legends about reporters and editors.

POISING

A consequence is that here in New York a lot of show-offs think it smart to pose as "journalists." Every city editor in town will tell you he constantly is petitioned for press cards—the badges of privilege issued by the police department—by persons who are in no way entitled to their use.

Recently, too, there have been instances of impostors pretending to be this and that prominent figure of the local press in order to get credit or special attention.

Several of the night life reporters have been informed of stiff bills run up at restaurants, obscure clubs and even with taxi drivers, by persons using their names.

One of the pretenders rounded out his little act even to the extent of carrying copy paper and interviewing his victims with a promise of an item about them in the paper.

NO ATLANTIS, THIS

The belief that Manhattan Island some day will sink, Atlantis like, from its own weight, has been considered for a place in the national credo.

But now comes a group of engineers, armed with higher mathematics, to show that every skyscraper erected here lessens the weight upon the island's bedrock. They figure that excavated material—top soil, stone and so forth—usually weighs more than the entire new structure on the site, with its "roots" so deep in the earth.

For instance, on the 12 acres which will hold a gigantic building center they are working on, they say that 1,000,000 tons of excavated material will have been removed, whereas the total weight of their group of structures will be only 660,000 tons.

They point out further that the old dwellings, store and office buildings cleared off the site had an estimated weight of 90,000 tons.

Thus the weight on the bedrock below the 12 acres will be reduced 430,000 tons by the massive compositions of modern architecture.

So don't bother to bring your bathing suit when you come to New York unless you are going to the beach—for the sea won't come to Manhattan.

CHERRY TREE TALE BLAMED BY SCHOOL

Cleveland, O., (AP)—The much-discussed story about George Washington cutting down the cherry tree with his hatchet will not be told Cleveland public school children at Washington birthday observances this year, because it "regarded seriously" by educators, Charles H. Lake Assistant Superintendent announces.

In a little paint and varnish shop on Third avenue there is a sign offering any one who purchases a dollars' worth of goods a 35 cent toothbrush for nothing. In case you bite into the wet paint, perhaps.

SOCIETY PAGE

THE Cecilians have been most ambitious in presenting exceptionally beautiful programs since the opening of the new year, and one of the loveliest recitals which their records have ever chronicled was that of Monday evening, in which the club presented Miss Lorie King, pianist, Mr. James Kneisley, violinist, Miss Kathleen Davis, soprano, The Federated club room held an assemblage of over a hundred and the instant applause attested the delight of the audience and brought back the artists for charming encores.

Mr. Kneisley opened the program with three "Variations of Gavotte"—Correlli—"Gypsy Airs"—Sarasati. In this group the violinist showed his excellent technique and played them with expert skill. In both these difficult numbers and in his other violin groups, the artist was at his best, which is saying a good deal.

Miss Lorie King always captivates every audience in her brilliant and exceptionally artistic piano work and called forth a storm of applause in her playing of "Sous Bois"—Victor Staub—a beautiful light airy French composition, describing the out of doors under the trees. As an encore she played her own "Scherzo" most beautifully.

Mr. Kneisley played more familiar numbers in his second group, which included "Souvenir Poétique"—Lohar; "Frasquita"—Lohar; "Kamennol-Ostran"—Rubenstein; "Perpetuum Mobile"—Ries. Each number was lovely and as an encore "Devan"—Saint Sains, was played.

Miss Kathleen Davis delighted the listeners with a group of songs—"Autumn Dirge"; "Autumn" and an encore, "Quiet Road"—the songs composed by Nell Lorie King. Miss Davis has a clear, true voice, sweet in quality and sings with perfect poise. Mr. Kneisley played a violin solo for two numbers.

Mr. Kneisley's last violin number was "Andante and Scherzo Capriccioso"—David. This was an extremely difficult number, the artist bringing out the different movements and moods skillfully and playing with complete ease.

Miss King, as accompanist for the violin and voice numbers, did her always sympathetic and perfect work.

After the program a generous silver offering was taken as a Christmas remembrance for Mr. Kneisley, in appreciation of his always ready response to the requests of the Cecilians.

Mrs. Mary G. Burgett, president, and Mrs. Bessie Mitchell, received at the door. Mrs. Burgett gave gracious welcome to the guests and introduced the musicians.

A committee including Mrs. J. E. Magley, Mrs. Daniel Howard Davis and Mrs. Blanche Belin arranged the supper and promoted the pleasures with cordial hospitality.

Following the supper hour, the evening was devoted to work on the comforts, one top completed and another knotted.

LIVING AND LOVING

BY VIRGINIA LEE

THE FIRST year of married life is the hardest, they say. But at that time a young couple is apt to be making many delightful discoveries about one another as well as some not so pleasant. And the pain of the disagreements that come during this period of adjustment are compensated by the happy makings up.

It is after years of life together—"After fair and stormy weather"—as the song says. After sharing joys and sorrows, the delights and anxieties of parenthood—all that years of living together implies—that a wrecked marriage spells tragedy.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE, We have been married 25 years, have three grown children and are in our forties. Having been pals and sweethearts until a year ago, then our trouble started.

"My husband doesn't love me any more. He did want me to give him a divorce, but I said 'No.' I will never give him a divorce. He has no grounds whatever to get one. He is the only man I will ever love, or ever want, and if he don't want me I don't want any other woman to have him.

"He does things and keeps them from me, or tries to; but his actions and conscience tell on him. I am not deceitful and I don't do anything I am ashamed of and have nothing to regret. He may be passing that dangerous age we read so much of, so I am living in hope, but may die in despair. Am I right?

"You may be, Lucile, I certainly wouldn't give up husband and home without waiting awhile to be sure your husband really has ceased loving you for keeps, and that there is no possible chance for you to regain your happiness.

It may be that he is passing through this so-called "dangerous age," and will in time discover that he really still loves and wants you. In that case, patience is the best weapon you can wield. Patience and love that makes you very kind and never permits you to say a cross word or upbraid him in any way. Love that makes you want to try to understand him and the weakness that makes him act as he is doing, and hold on until there is no longer any hope.

Dear Diary.

Story of a Girl who went to New York for Fame and Fortune By ETHELDA BEDFORD, INC. RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION, INC.

TUESDAY NIGHT.

DEAR DIARY: "Silly of me, I know—but I never think of anyone else. I mean any other girl ever calling you—"

Nate's eyes turned to the little bluish green flames on the imitation logs.

"But, of course, lots of others call—"

Suddenly, Diary, his hands caught about my arms and pulled me to my feet. Then he caught me under my elbows and lifted me bodily from the floor. Finally my feet rested on top of the little tattered stool on which I had been sitting.

"What's the matter with you tonight?" Nate asked.

I was too surprised to answer. But I was fully aware that his eyes were delightfully gray and very bright—and that they were on a level with my own.

His hands were warm and steady as his strong, long fingers wrapped around my arms just above the bend of my elbows.

I laughed a little hysterically. "Tell me," he commanded, not releasing his hold.

"Tell you—what?" I countered. He held me.

"Nate—"

"Look at me—"

M— eyes were being tricky, laughing.

"Yes—"

"Stop laughing!"

I couldn't. It wasn't funny. It wasn't sensible, Diary. It was just—just a little tighter. His hands fastened a little tighter. The muscles in my arms were charged.

"Nate—don't hold me—"

"I will hold you—look at me. . . . Tell me why are you so blue tonight. . . . why are you so beautiful. . . . wait. . . . he caught his breath. "Don't speak. . . please. . . ."

I want to kiss you. . . . I can't remember, Diary, what I said just then. . . . how should I remember!

I know I lowered my head. . . . I know I shook my head. . . . I know I didn't. . . . didn't kiss him, then—Why?

Oh, why, why!

MARRIAGES SHOW BIG SHRINKAGE

NEW LAW PARTLY RESPONSIBLE FOR DECREASED NUMBER

The number of marriage licenses issued in Fayette county during November was just one third the number issued in the past four Novembers prior to this year, according to records at the Probate Judge's office.

During the past month only five marriage permits were issued, while last year in November 15 were issued, 15 the previous November, 17 in November, 1928, and 13 in November, 1927.

Belief is expressed that the new marriage law is largely responsible for the shrinkage in number of marriages.

This law requires five days notice, unless a passable reason for immediate issuance of the license is given. However, very few applicants are refused a license on the day they apply.

HOME SWEET HOME!

HUSBAND NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR DAMAGE DONE WHEN HE DODGES WIFE'S ATTACKS

Chicago, Dec. 1.—(AP)—A man's home is his castle and when things therein begin to fly in his direction he has a perfect right to dodge.

This was the ruling of Judge John Eberhardt in the case of C. E. Tracey, sales manager of an electrical concern, who was accused by his landlord, Joseph Lisoroweth, of malicious mischief.

The story, as related in court, was that when Tracey tipped into his home one day during the early morning hours, his wife cut loose with a vase, a radio, a golf trophy and a few other things, all of which he successfully dodged.

His landlord claimed the damage was $250, but Tracey said it now presumably in Reno. Judge Eberhardt agreed with Tracey, but should be charged against his wife the latter agreed to be liberal and pay Lisoroweth $100.

MARKETS and FINANCIAL NEWS

DAY'S ACTIVITIES IN WALL STREET

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

New York, Dec. 1.—(AP)—After early selling which carried a number of leading stocks down 1 to 3 points or more today, the stock market firmed, Railroad shares led the upturn, more than erasing their early losses. Industrials recovered most of their previous declines.

Railroad stocks came to the forefront of speculative attention because of rumors of an impending wage reduction in Canada.

In the industrial issues, motion picture stocks were subjected to severe early pressure, but when the tone of the general market changed, they, too, shared in partial recovery. Virtually the entire list regained one-half to three-quarters of the earlier losses in later trading.

Activity centered largely in United States Steel, American Can, International Harvester and Case, among others. Fairly typical of the action of the entire industrial group was National Biscuit which after an early loss of 3 points rebounded 2 points on the rally.

The familiar picture of the rapid fall of the English pound sterling drew widespread attention in early trading, but reassuring reports came from foreign money centers as well as from New York banks.

It is the belief of New York bankers that England will let the pound sterling stabilize itself. It is their view that sterling will strike a level where it represents its present intrinsic value. Artificial measures of support prior to that occurrence seem unlikely. Another point emphasized by some Wall street bankers is their conviction that France is not bearing down on the pound for political purposes.

An estimated reduction of 23,396 barrels daily was reported in the nation's production of oil.

Fayette Producers Company Statement

The markets last week continued to hit new low levels on prices. The average cost of hogs last week on Chicago market was $4.40 per cwt., striking the lowest point since 1900.

Receipts and slaughter are now exceeding that of a year ago. Monday's receipts of 70,000 hogs are the largest receipts since February of this year. Receipts at 12 principal markets last week were 100,000 head of hogs greater than the corresponding week a year ago. Purchasing power of the city consumer has not caught up with this increase of slaughter.

Last week, November 23-28, the Fayette Producers Association handled for the farmers of the county, a total of 29 decks of livestock including 1483 hogs, 65 cattle and 193 sheep and lambs. Top prices received by patrons on hogs were $4.90 per cwt., calves $7.45 per cwt., and lambs $6.20 per cwt.

The cooperative association offers a complete, satisfactory and economic method of marketing livestock to the farmers of the county.

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

By JOHN P. BOUGHAN

Chicago, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Assessments that Russia was buying wheat for internal needs helped give a sudden hoist today to the wheat market here. The upturn was also stimulated by notably bullish reports concerning the United States winter crop outlook, some experts constraining the reports as indicative of a complete change in domestic and world supply conditions next spring. Figures on five leading states suggested a crop only 10,000,000 bushels more than was harvested this year by Kansas alone.

Highest prices of the day were reached in the late dealings. Wheat closed unsettled 3/4¢/1 1/2¢, cents above yesterday's finish, corn unchanged to 1/4¢ lower, oats 1/4¢ off to 1/2¢ up, and provisions unchanged to 12 cents down.

Substantial rallies in heat prices took place later as a result of December unofficial domestic monthly crop summaries. One comprehensive report estimated winter wheat planting at 36,086,000 acres, a reduction of 14.9 per cent compared with last year. The crop condition was figured as 79.4 of normal, against 86.3 a year ago, and 83.2 the ten year average. In only three years in more than 50 years has the December 1 condition of winter wheat been below 80.

Another report covering results of a 2,000 mile trip in the south-west by a leading crop authority said that a total of 7,700,000 acres of domestic winter wheat has the poorest start ever known. The report stated that there was little or no reserve moisture over the big heavy producing territory, and until recently there was from none to only a trace of upper moisture at seeded depths. Corn and oats sympathized with wheat price fluctuations.

Provisions reflected setbacks in hog values.

TULANE COACH

ALWAYS KEEPS COOL

Win or Lose, Bierman
Never Too Excited to Think Straight

AND LOSSES ARE FEW

Players Likewise Must Keep Level-headed

By T. S. ADAMS

New Orleans—(AP)—Behind every great mechanism there is a presiding genius.

In the case of Tulane University's football machine, it is Bernard William Bierman, head coach, known as the man who never lost his temper, never raised his voice, never shed a tear and never begged his players to go out and die for dear old Slawak.

Some 10,000 persons yelled their heads off and grew hoarse with excitement the other day as Tulane dashed over Georgia, 29-7, in a bid for sectional and national honors, but there was at least one man at Athens who gave every appearance of outward calm.

It was Bernie Bierman, stocky and broad, of medium height, carrying a very square jaw on a good natured face under prematurely greying hair, he sat on Tulane bench in a conservative business suit, giving a silent demonstration of his basic football tenet—collectiveness.

He was not excited, because he does not believe in getting excited. Football games are not won that way, he says. They are won calmly with a lot of thinking a long time in advance.

It is a common misconception hereabouts that Pullback Felts, plunging viciously off-tackle, Jerry Dalrymple smashing in to break up the opposition strategy, Don Zimmerman sweeping the ends on legs like steel springs, represent the last word in players "keyed" to spectacular accomplishment.

It isn't so. In all the victories won in the Southern conference during the last three years Tulane has gone out on the field without any pre-game verbal fire-eating.

"I'd probably break down and laugh at myself in the middle of one of these impassioned dressing room speeches I hear about," Bierman said.

That's Bierman, director of one of the finest eleven ever developed in the south, a team with several outstanding All-American candidates this year and one headed for a possible bid to play in the Rose Bowl New Year's day.

He has a sense of humor behind that slow quiet smile. Calm low-voiced, self-possessed, friendly, he has a knack of passing on his attitude to those about him. More than a score major opponents of Tulane have found out sadly for themselves in recent years that they were facing not eleven frenzied players, but eleven canny men with all their wits about them.

Early this year, before the important encounter with Vanderbilt's Commodores, something of the excitement of the approaching conflict seeped into the dressing room. The Tulane squad was on edge. Eyes snapped, a few men paced the floor nervously. Unable to stand the strain of "waiting, someone cried: "Let's go," and flung open the gym door to release a flood of green-shirted players in a dash for the field.

"Halt!" It was Bierman's command, a flareback from his days as a marine captain. "Come back here." When the squad was back in the dressing room, the coach said:

"You WALK out on that field. Do your warming up when you get out there. Calm down, now. Keep your brains quiet. Your legs will take care of themselves."

And Tulane walked out, to a 19-0 victory.

Bierman was born of pioneer German stock on a farm in Minnesota, March 11, 1894. He got his first taste of football in high school and by the time he was a sophomore at Minnesota in 1913 he had an ambition to take four "M's" in one year—football, basketball, track and baseball.

He came to Tulane as assistant to Clark Shaughnessy in 1923. In 1925 he went to Mississippi A. and M. as head coach, returning to Tulane in 1927 when Shaughnessy went to Loyola. Since 1928 Tulane has not lost a game in the Southern conference. It tied 0-0 with Louisiana State and dropped one non-conference tilt to Northwestern in 1930.

By JAMES L. RENICK

Columbus, O., Dec. 1—(AP)—Five jewels from the crown of the Buckeye Athletic Association, four from the Ohio Conference and two from a non-conference school were crystallized in the crucible of competition out of the mass of players on 31 Ohio football team last season.

Assembled in one diadem they form the 1931 All-Ohio football team as selected for the Associated Press by coaches, officials and sports writers.

Every college team in Ohio was considered except Ohio State University, which was in a stratum of national scope, and Wilberforce, which did not play another Ohio eleven.

The players were selected on the basis of their individual play and the strength of their opposition but not on the strength of their own team.

U. OF DAYTON HIGH SCORING TEAM IN OHIO

Columbus, O., Dec. 1—(AP)—The University of Dayton had the champion scoring football team in Ohio during the 1931 season. While tied twice and defeated on more times, the Flyers outscored all other teams in the state by accumulating 236 points.

Only two other teams had more than 200 points. They were Wittenberg's undefeated squad with 214 and Mount Union with 206. Other teams and their total points were Ohio State 194; Cincinnati, 193; Ohio University 169; Ohio Wesleyan 165; Wilberforce, 166; Miami, 159; Ohio Northern 151; Muskingum 138; Baldwin-Wallace 126; Kenyon 118; Case 114; John Carroll 114; Defiance 108; and Otterbein, 105.

Individual scoring honors went to Leo Grimes of Mount Union who accounted for a total of 162 points. Edgar Westfall, Ohio Wesleyan, was second with 72 points.

Coaching System At Princeton Is Hit by Students

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 1—(AP)—Princeton's disastrous football season—a win over Amherst and then seven straight defeats—has led to a demand by the Daily Princetonian, undergraduate news daily for a sweeping revision of the coaching system.

In a two and one-half column editorial, the paper blamed the Princeton board of athletic control and the alumni football committee primarily for "Princeton's ridiculous showing."

"It is they," said the paper, "who, knowing full well the limitations of the men they had to choose from, clung with false pride to alumni coaching. Coach (Al) Wittmer merely accepted the post offered and strove to overcome handicaps."

Speaking frankly, it seems inevitable and wise that the present outmoded coaching system be swept into reorganization with a general revision of personnel.

Billiard Record Set by Violinist

Philadelphia, Dec. 1—(AP)—A Brooklyn violinist, with his delicate touch, established a new tournament record run of 85 in the opening session of the world's pocket billiard championships.

Onorio Lauri completed his unfinished run in the tenth inning to easily defeat Spencer Lively, of Los Angeles, 125 to 28. Joining Erwin Rudolph, Cleveland, defending champion in victory in the starting matches, George Kelly of Philadelphia fell before Rudolph, 125 to 38 in 16 innings.

Twelve experts of the nation are entering in the 19 day tournament, four of them being former champions.

Cubs Being Built Up By Owner's Fat Purse

Major-Minor League Conference Featured by Sale and Trade Offers on "Made" Baseball Stars

West Baden, Ind., Dec. 1—(AP)—So far there has been plenty of sparring but no knockouts in the big Major-Minor League skirmish at West Baden to land better players or more desirable playing combinations for the 1932 baseball campaign.

The Chicago Cubs, here with a big bag of William Wrigley's gold to tempt such clubs as the Boston Braves, the Phillies and the championship St. Louis Cardinals, intimated they were making good progress and almost ready to break the monotony with announcement. Many rumors involved their buddies and one of them included Burleigh Grimes, star pitcher of the Cardinals. It was learned Grimes was for sale and every one knew the Cubs had the cash.

Ed Brandt, star hurler for the Braves, and Whitey Klein, home run producer for the Phillies, also are mentioned as probable Cubs for 1932.

Colonel Jake Ruppert of the Yankees and his manager, Joe McCarthy, also held frequent huddles while the other club owners and pilots, excepting the Chicago White Sox, spent most of their time lolling about the lobbies. The White Sox were "hot" after a few trades.

Meanwhile, the minor leagues held various meetings of no great importance to the outside baseball world. The annual meeting of their general body, the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, was postponed from today presumably to give some of their representatives more time to get here, under the postponement, the meetings will be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

More than a score of former managers, club owners, coaches and scouts were in the throng looking for openings.

Camden, N.J.—Gas Sonnenberg, Boston, defeated Jack Ganson, Cleveland, one fall (Ganson unable to return for second).

Kansas City—Police stopped a match between Abe Coleman, Los Angeles, and Everett Marshall because of roughness outside the ring. Marshall, 210, and Coleman, 205, had each won a fall when the match was declared no contest.

Youngstown—Robin Reed, Portland, Ore., welterweight defeated Jack Bomar of Texas in a one-hour, one-fall match.

Bonar, thrown through the ropes, was knocked out when his head hit the concrete floor, but finished the match 15 minutes later. George Vassell, Greece, threw Al Schrader, Utah, in 55 minutes.

CHARITY RACE AT BOWIE IS WORTH $28,000

Bowie, Md., Dec. 1—(AP)—Bowie has swelled to $125,000 the contribution of Maryland's four race tracks to the unemployed.

A fifth and final charity day program for the year here yesterday poured approximately $28,000 into the fund.

The four previous charity day meets, one each at Bowie, Laurel, Pimlico and Harve De Grace provided $96,000. A fifth day was arranged to bring the fund to the $100,000 mark.

Bob Greason, North Carolina State college end, has averaged over 40 yards per kick this season.

FESLER'S COACHING PRAISED: WILLAMAN REVEALS THAT HE DEVELOPED CRAMER AS STAR

Cleveland, O., Dec. 1—(AP)—Wesley Fesler, former All-American, is still doing a pretty good job at Ohio State University.

Coach Sam Willaman of the Buckeyes revealed here last night that Fesler, now assistant to Willaman, had much to do with the development of Carl Cramer, Ohio State's sensational sophomore quarterback, as a punter and passer.

"Cramer never passed or kicked in high school," Willaman told Cleveland alumni. "He was only a ball carrier. Our greatest problem this year was to develop punting, passing and field generalship, and Cramer filled those needs."

Willaman was insistent in his praise of Cramer as a broken field runner and receiver of punts.

Willaman reviewed the 1931 season and indicated he has high hopes for next year providing he can find capable successors to Bob Haubrich and Bill Bell, stellar tackles.

The Buckeye mentor, however, said he believed some good tackles would be uncovered among the freshmen or reserves. There also is a possibility that Mike Vachulich, who made good defensive fullback, might be revamped into a lineman.

Minnesota, which pummeled Ohio State last Saturday, "had the better team," Willaman said. "They have two great players in Munn and fullback Manders. We didn't get to scout them as closely as we did other teams, but we had been led to believe that Manders would be most damaging on a punter play. This phase of his attack we stopped completely, but in the center of the line we weren't prepared for him. As to our defense, we only got into their territory once so that we could open up and that time we scored."

DOZEN GAMES TO CHARITY SATURDAY

Another Round-Robin Is Thrown in Just for Good Measure

RATINGS UNAFFECTED

All Sections to Share in Helpful Spirit

By HERBERT W. BARKER

New York, Dec. 1—(AP)—Football most wealthy of intercollegiate sports, will share with the unemployed this week to the extent of an even dozen games and one round-robin tournament.

So hearty has been the response of the colleges to the appeal for help that an original slate that called for only seven big games on Dec. 5, now lists twenty. Of the 13 charity contests the east, mid-west, south and far west contribute on about equal terms.

The eastern slate will include the battle here between the unbeaten volunteers of Tennessee and New York University; the Round Robin Tournament at New Haven involving Yale, Dartmouth, Holy Cross and Brown; and the duel at Pittsburgh between Carnegie Tech and Duquesne.

In the South, Alabama meets Chattanooga, Southern Intercollegiate A. A. champion, at Chattanooga and South Carolina will face Center at Columbia, S. C. A picked eleven from Duke and North Carolina will play a team selected among North Carolina State, Davidson and Wake Forest at Durham, N. C.

The clash at San Francisco between the undefeated Southern Methodist Mustangs and Gaels of St. Mary's of Oakland, heads a far Western charity program that will include as well games between Utah and Oregon State at Portland and Nebraska, Big Six champions, and the Colorado Aztecs at Denver.

In the Midwest, four other Big Six teams have contributed their services. Kansas will play Washburn at Topeka; Kansas State meets Wichita at Wichita; Missouri tackles St. Louis at St. Louis and Oklahoma battles Oklahoma City at Norman, Okla.

None of these charity games can affect either sectional or national ratings but these is prospect of close action in many instances.

While here Mrs. Moody will meet China's leading tennis players in exhibition matches.

Risko Victorious Over Christner

Cleveland, Dec. 1—(AP)—Boxing score between Johnny Risko, of Cleveland rubber man, and K. O. Asker, Akron heavyweight, stands two to one in favor of Risko.

The two met for the third time here last night, and Risko punched out a clean cut decision over a 10-round route. Risko was accredited with winning every stanza.

By previous understanding, there were almost no rides and twice Christner nearly tossed Risko out of the ring in the manner of wrestlers.

Risko weighed 197½, Christner 202½.

Risko's stablemate, Dynamite Joe Dunn, scored a decisive six-round victory over Jimmy Taylor, Cleveland middleweight, in the semi-final. Gene Stanton, heavyweight, lost to Chet Shandel, Akron.

FAME IS SO FICKLE!

ONLY HANDFUL OF FRIENDS AT FUNERAL OF ACTRESS APPLAUSED BY THOUSANDS

New York, Dec. 1.—(AP)—They buried Lya De Putti Monday—a handful of close friends, a few servants, and the inevitable curious.

There was a solemn High Requiem Mass at St. Patrick's Cathedral, Woodlawn cemetery was the burial place.

Mrs. Nate Spingold, close friend of the Hungarian screen star who died last week after a short illness, offered to provide cars to the cemetery "for all who show enough interest in the dead girl to attend the funeral."

Thousands of curious passed the 32-year-old actress' bier yesterday in an undertaker's parlor on Broadway—the street where her attempt to win stage honors failed a year ago—but none of the familiar faces of screen or theatrical stars was observed among them.

Kansas City, Mo., (AP)—William G. McAdoo shrugged his shoulders over Democratic presidential possibilities here Sunday night and said it appeared only wets had been mentioned for the nomination.

"It would take columns to say what I think about Democratic prospects," the former Secretary of the Treasury said. "It would take hours, the train leaves in a few minutes."

Love Stands By

CHAPTER 42

LOIS' first impulse had been to jump down from the rocks and run away. Margaret observed Lois catch her breath and then she looked in the direction of the car space and saw immediately what the trouble was. Bruce wasn't talking to the girl. But she certainly was talking to him. If anyone who knew Sybil Morse could see her now he would swear that it wasn't she. It couldn't be. She was looking up into Bruce's face and talking to him as though her very life depended on it. It did.

"Oh, why couldn't he have gone some place else with her," Lois, wounded at heart, said to Margaret. "He didn't have to bring her here. This is our spot. We always come here. It belongs to us."

"Now, now, where is all that faith and trust and the rest of that bunk that you were going to have?" Margaret cautioned.

Lois started to speak and then stopped herself. All of her resolutions, both to herself and Bruce, weren't going to mean anything if she didn't take hold of herself. Margaret helped her.

"Heavens, he probably doesn't enjoy being out here with that girl, whoever she is. Can't you tell by the way he looks at her. Or rather by the way he doesn't look at her."

Lois nodded slowly.

"Well," Margaret went on, "he had to take her some place. She probably even asked him to take her for a ride. He couldn't refuse when she was a guest in his own home."

"No," he couldn't," Lois admitted.

"Besides," Margaret said, "he told you he loved you, didn't he? That he didn't love anybody except you?"

"Yes."

"Well then, what do you care if he brings a dozen girls out here?"

Lois thought that Margaret probably was right but it was hard to go through something like this. She couldn't help feeling bad about it. Any girl would be jealous, seeing Bruce sitting there with another girl not fifty feet away from her.

"Let's go," Lois said nervously.

Margaret smiled. "Walk out there in front of him so that he'll have to speak to you and be embarrassed and goodness knows what else."

"No," Lois remonstrated. "There's another way to get out of here without going past his car."

Lois clambered down from the rocks and Margaret followed her complaining that she was no walrus and never had been much of a hand at climbing around on rocks. Lois was paid no attention to her. She was interested only in getting away from there so that she wouldn't have to sit and watch that girl making love to her Bruce. She knew that was what was occurring. She could tell by the way the girl was looking at him.

It was in fact, exactly what was taking place. Sybil had grown tired of dancing and asked Bruce to take her for a drive, as per the instructions of her mother. She was now, also, at the instructions of her mother, telling Bruce how much her father was going to do for her when she married.

"We have a place on Long Island, you know. Father bought it a long time ago. But we never built on it. He's going to build a home for me there, a summer home, you know."

Bruce nodded absently.

"Then mother is going to give me a car and pay for my chauffeur for a year. Isn't that nice of her?"

Bruce nodded again absently.

He was a little surprised at Sybil's apparent ease. She seemed to be able to talk all right now. She wasn't blushing either. He didn't know that she had been rehearsing for this date with him for the past week.

From the way she talked Bruce gathered that she was all ready to take the vows with somebody. She certainly intimidated as much. He hoped so. Then she would be off the list. His aunt couldn't ride him concerning Sybil any longer.

"When are you getting married?" he asked her hopefully.

Sybil shifted uneasily in the seat.

"Oh," she said, "oh, I didn't mean that I was getting married." She laughed nervously. "Goodness, did you think I meant that? I didn't intend to give you the wrong impression."

"Just my luck," Bruce thought.

"Oh, well."

He said, "Well, I didn't know. You spoke of the things your family was going to give you."

"I know," she explained, "but I mean when I did get married."

Bruce wasn't looking at her but he could feel her eyes on him. He didn't like it. He wasn't comfortable. He suggested several times that they go back to the party, but Sybil always had some ready excuse for him. One time she even put her hand on the wheel when she thought that he was about to start the motor.

He sat there and thought about the girl he wished he were with tonight. Sybil talked on and on. Bruce's mind went wandering. He was thinking of his future with Lois. If Sybil had only known what a hopeless task she had before her she wouldn't even have attempted talking to him. But she didn't know, so she went on with everything that her mother had so carefully coached her to say.

She told Bruce that she had liked him ever since they were young. She thought it was so nice to be a friend of someone as long as that. Their friendship had meant so much to her. Bruce thought vaguely about the night that he had tried to kiss her when they had been playing games at somebody's party and she had gone home crying. He had been terribly embarrassed about it and the fellows had kidded him for weeks. He never quite found it in his heart to forgive her for it.

She told him that she hoped he wouldn't think she was bold but that she would like to have him take her to the club some Friday night.

"I have an engagement every Friday night with my girl," Bruce told her point-blank. He stared out coldly at the lake. He felt Sybil relax a little. "Oh," she said, "I didn't know about that?"

"Yes," Bruce virtually grunted. He wanted to say "Well, you know it now," but he didn't.

The next time he asked her whether she were ready to go back to the house, she was. She never said a word all the way back. Bruce was bored, and his Aunt Eleanor didn't fail to observe, either, that he had been out with Sybil.

She made out as though there were some deep secret about their ride.

"Where have you two been?" she questioned, pointing a finger accusingly at Sybil and saying it loudly enough for everyone in the room to hear.

AND THEN DIVORCE!

DAUGHTER OF AMBASSADOR JOHN N. WILLYS SEPARATES FROM ARGENTINIAN

New York, Dec. 1.—(AP)—The former Virginia Clayton Willys, who was married in 1929 to Luis Marcelino De Aguirre, son of an Argentine cattle raiser, is seeking a divorce in Paris, her father, Ambassador John N. Willys, of Toledo, Ohio, admitted.

Ambassador Willys, on a furlough home from the Warsaw embassy, said:

"I saw Virginia in Berlin and she said she was going to seek a divorce. It is true that I was not very keen about her marriage. I didn't think it would last. But she was determined. It was the only thing she ever refused me."

"Now it is just as well. Suppose I had insisted. She might have married someone else and not have liked him any better. I'd have been to blame and I'd have heard 'Luis' for a long time."

Mrs. Willys is with her daughter in Paris.

Xenia, Ohio, (AP)—Perry M. N. Stewart, 66, one of the founders and presidents of The Miami Deposit Bank at Yellow Springs, died suddenly Monday. He was a former treasurer of Clark county.
